Headline:

Dry but cloudy with some fog overnight. Cloudy Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:

Mostly dry during the evening and overnight, with variable and often large amounts of cloud, especially in the south. Perhaps periodically clearer and colder in the north, however this is likely to lead to areas of fog given light winds. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Friday:

Dry but overall rather cloudy, with early areas of fog gradually lifting as a breeze develops. Some limited brighter intervals are possible later, ahead of overnight rain. Becoming mild. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:

Relatively high uncertainty. Overall mild but damp, with rain most likely early and late Christmas Day. Probably unsettled Boxing Day with brighter interludes, ahead of a cloudier and damp Monday.
